THE STORY OF HIS ASSASSINATION.

He Visits Dr McDow to Pernonstrate Against the Latter's Infamons Conduct
-Shot While Sitting in a Chair.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 12 .- [Special. - Captain I. W. Dawson, editor of the News and Courler, was murdered this afternoon by Dr. T. B. McDow in McDow's office in this city.

It was the most cowardly and brutal murder ever committed here and has aroused the indignation of the entire community. The immediate cause of the murder is not known, although it is said that Captain Dawson went to McDow's office to expostulate with him about his indecent conduct towards a nurse-maid in Dawson's family, and that in the alteration which ensued, Dawson was shot and killed instantly. The bullet entered his heart. McDow locked the door of his office and left his victim lying there from half-past four o'clock until 6 o'clock when he went to the police station and surrendered himself. The coroner viewed the body tonight, organized a jury and adjourned the inquest until tomor-J. C. HEMPHILL.

Another Account.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 12 .- [Special.] The city tonight is in a terrible state of excitement over the assassination of Captain F. W. Dawson, the editor of the News and Courier. The murderer is named T. B. McDow, a young physician, who is married and has several children.

.The evidence in the case is very meagre, but it has been learned that Captain Dawson was murdered because of an attempt on his part TO SAVE THE HONOR OF A SERVANT GIRL in his employ. The murder, it is said, was committed about 45 p. m., but not discovered for three hours afterwards, when the murderet surrendered himself. The body of the murdered man had, in the meantime, lain in the office of the murderer, not one hundred yards from his own residence. Captain Dayson left the News and Courier office about 2:30 p. m., and was never seen alive again. If appliared that he had suspicions that his faaid servant, who had charge of his children, was not behaving herself properly. Last week he asked the chief of police to detail a detective to shadow the girl, stating that if she was honorably courted he would have nothing to say, but that he did not desire his children to be intrusted to a girl who was not strictly honest. The detective accordingly

SHADOWED THE GIRL. On Monday morning he saw her get on a Rutledge avenue street car, where she was soon joined by Dr. McDow, the murderer. The detective followed the pair for several bours, and subcritted a report in writing to the chief of police, who communicated its details to Captain Dawson this morning.

As stated above, Captain Dawson left his office at 3:40 p. m. today and was found murdered about 6:30 in the office of Dr. McDow His face was tadle beaten and a pistol bullet was found in his heart. It is supposed that he went to Dr.Me Dew's to remonstrate with him a—marked man and the father of several childrent-against seducing his maid servant, and that Dr. McDow shot him after the two had been engoed in a scrimmage.

After the muster McDow disappeared till 6:30 p. fa., whom he appeared at the police station and surrendered himself. McDow is said to be the early doctor in the city who is not a member of the State Medical society, and has an unsavory reputation. He man ried some years ago the daughter of C. C. Ahrens, a rich setired grocer, and it is known that the police have been asked to shadow him several times. The city is in a terrible

The shot was a fatal one. After murdering his victim, it is said, Dr. McDow left him lying on the floor locked his office door and went but to a corner grocery shop. There is evidence that he tried to bury the corpse of his victim, but that in the meantime sus-picions had get out, and finally, three hours after he had killed his victim, he surrendered himselfs to the police authorities.

The neurdore has the reputation of being a rake, and it is said that he is known in almost every bawdy house in the city. Tonight the

CHY IS WRAPPED IN MOURNING, and the murder is the subject of discussion in every quarter of the town. The body of the murdered manchas been taken to his residence, and the coroner, after empaneling a jury, ha adjourned the inquest until tomorrow.

The murderer was hurried off to the jail as soon as he had; surrendered himself, and for the present is safe from lynching, as the jail is well high im regnable. The entire commu-

Sketch of the Noble Man Who Was Mur-Mered Yesterday.
NEW YORK March 12.—The Tribune says:

"Calstain Dewson was a native of England, but he passed the greater part of his life in the southern states. Early in the war Commodore Robert B. Pegram, of the confederate navy. was in English waters in command of the Nashville. To him came an innocent and well-mannered young Englishman, with the request that he be given passage to the southern states, as he wished to join the confederate army. There was a general discharge of guns at him, but was not known whether he was hit. At roll call in the morning young Dawson was missing. A few days afterward it was learned that he had swam far enough towards the federals to escape the commodore's sentinels, and had then reached Captain Pegram's battery. This battery was in a few days in the thickest of the fight, and it is Captain Pegram's testimony that he had never witnessed such cool bravery in his life as was dis-

Captain Dawson subsequently succeeded Riordan as sole owner. He was a leading and prominent citizen of the state, and was well known as a member of the South Carolina democratic national mmittee. Captain Dawson achieved considerable distinction on account of his steadfast refusal to engage in a duel, some years since, n response to a challenge from one of the nost prominent citizens of the state. He boldy announced that he was opposed to duelling methods. For this attitude he received a substantial indersement from the pope. During stantial indorsement from the Ipope. During the memorable earthquake that nearly destroyed Charleston, Captain Dawson was able to publish his paper through-out the entire period of alarm and distress, and as soon as the telegraph wires were in operation out of Charleston furnished graphic and effective descriptions of that morable night and succeeding days that filled Charleston with distress and destitution He was a gentleman held in the highest respect by persons of all classes and conditions, and prominent citizens declare that his killing must have been deliberate and outrageous murder."

ON LONGSTREET'S STAFF. Captain Dawson was transferred from the navy to the artillery service. He was on General. Longstreet's staff in the Knoxville campaign and served with conspicuous gal-lantry until the close of the war. He was an ntimate friend of General Lee, and was regarded by all as one of the most chivalrous and gallant soldiers and officers of the confederacy.

SHE LEFT HER HUSBAND And Eloped With Another Man-The Note

Left Behind, NASHVILLE, March 12.—[Special.]—A pretty young blonde, aged fifteen and married, has left a happy home in this city and gone off with another man. Lum Hoiden went to his home on South Spruce street, and instead of finding a wife to welcome him, he found a note which said:

I have gone off to school. I have found a lady who is willing to educate me, and I will not be back in two years.

daughter of William Pettus, a merchant. About a year ago she was going to school at St. Cecilia, when she ran off and married Holden. The young wife deserted her husband for a young man named W. D. Thornberg walked home with her severa-times, and, according to Thornberg's tale, one night he met his friend's husband, and he night he met his friend's husband, and he asked him if he had gone home with his wife and drew a knife on him, but did not cut him. The two commenced to meet every day, and for awhile met at a business house on the square, but were stopped by the proprietor. Thornberg bought a trunk at a house on the square, and every day he would come and put something in it, which was supposed to be feminine wearing appared. Some of his friends thinking that he was going to take the girl off with him, went to him and told him not to do it.

SHOT AT BY A BURGLAR. Who Carried Off Five Thousand Dollars

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., March 12.—[Special.]
A daring burglar broke into the house of Charles S. Cryster, a prominent attorney of this city, this morning about 3 o'clock, by using forceps to unlock the frontdoor. He was first discovered in the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Cornell Cryster, who had been aroused by some slight noise. Thinking it was some member of the family they were asked what was wanted, and were told to keep still or their heads would be blown off. Mr. Cryster immediately jumped out of bed and diately jumped out of bed and

when the latter fired at him, but missed, the bullet passing through the headboard of the bed and into the bed clothes, where it was afterwards found. The burglar then turned and fled down stairs and out the door. He was closely followed by Charles Cryster, who slept on the lower floor. He fired several s hots at the vanishing miscreant, but failed to hit him. Five thousand dollars in checks and notes, a gold watch and $57 in cash were taken from Charles S. Cryster, and $20 in cash and a pair of pants were taken from his father, Cornell Cryster. The pants were afterwards found in the garden.

QUAY'S REVENGE.

MATT FIXING UP THINGS AGAINST DON CAMERON. WANNAMAKER TO GO TO THE SENATE

The Postmaster-General to Resign Within Two Years and Clarkson to be Appointed -Georgians in Washington

Washington, March 12.—[Special.]—Senator Quay has so far succeeded in his purpose to lift Don Cameron out of his seat in the United States senate that he is now trading

John Wanamaker, now postmaster-general, is to be Mr. Quay's colleague two years from now. So sure are they that this programme can be carried out that the position of postmaster-general, to be made vacant by Mr. Wanamaker's retirement, is already being used for the purposes of political barter.

John S. Clarkson, of Iowa, who was Mr. Quay's lieutenant in the late campaign, is to ceed Mr. Wanamaker in 1891, and the ostoffice department is to remain as the leadand the commodore had him taken to Riching part of Quay's political machine, and Clarkson has been very sore because he has not been given a cabinet position, and has re-fused the office of public printer and of first assistant postmaster-general. Today the arrangement was fixed up by which Clarkson is to accept the position of first assistant under Wanamaker, with the understanding that maker steps into Don Cameron's shoes. Clarkson holds out against accepting the pointment of first assistant until Quay can produce the necessary assurances that Wana-maker is a sure winner for the senatership, but tonight he was so far convinced that Quay could make his promises good that he told his Iowa friends that the pressure on him was such that he felt he must accept the position of first assistant. This slaughter of Cameron is the most merciless and deliberate piece of political murder that has so far distinguished the new administration.

CHARRISON AND BLAINE NOT HARMONIOUS. The reported breach between Secretary Blaine and President Harrison has caused a sensation here, and was generally looked for, but not quite so early in the game. There is no doubt but the rupture is over the repre-sentative to the court of St. James, as reported. As is well known this governmen will not appoint a minister to England until that country sends over a successor to Sackville West, but that is to be done within a few weeks, therefore it is time for the president to onsider who he shall appoint to succeed Mr.

It is also known that Mr. Blaine favor leid and that the president wants another to fill it. Therefore it is probable tthey have already discussed the matter and that a breach now exists berween the two. Harrison and Blaine were almost certain to have a contest as to who shall control, and the fight has probably already opened.

A CABINET MEETING. There was a cabinet meeting today which was even more spirited than the last. The question came up as to who should be apointed assistant secretary of the interior. ecretary Noble requested that his assistant be Cyrus Bussey, of New Orleans, but President Harrison objected on the grounds that he had selected an Indianian for the position in the person of Colonel W. W. Dudley, famous as the author of the "Blocks of Five" letters. Secretary Noble immediately interposed his objections, which led to a very heated discussion, in which Blaine opposed the president. When the meeting adjourned an assistant secretary of the interior had not been decided upon. THE BOYS ON HAND. Alton and Ed Angier, Billy Wilson and Elgin Lochrane arrived tonight. They were met at the depot by one of General Longstreet's sons and driven to his headquarters, where the party remained for some time in

Ed Angier came in to look after his chances for district attorney. Billy Wilson wants to fix himself for the Atlanta postoffice, while Elgin Lochrane wants a consulship in a warm

Dick Dow, Perry Chisholm, Wink Taylor and Wallace Rhodes are expected tomorrow night to reinforce the already large delegation f office-seekers.

Dick Dow wants the marshalship of the northern district. Perry Chisholm wants to succeed Tom Crenshaw. Wink Taylor is after the Gainesville postoffice, while Wallace Rhodes is an opponent of Bill Wilson.

The arrivals tonight are Longstreet men, and say the only fight they will make is for home rule versus carpet baggers. Dr. C. W. Arnold seems to be the only Georgian here who has not come out as an avowed candidate for any office. He is mentioned for both collector of internal revenue and collector of customs at Savannah. SEVERAL SLATES.

A Georgia republican who seems to occupy a pentral position said tonight: "Here is the winning slate. Remember this. It is, Colonel Buck, marshal of the northern district; Walter Johnson, collector of internal revenue; S. A. Darnell, district attorney. Nothing else seems to be settled yet."

On the other hand another Georgian, who claims to be neutral, says Dick Dow will be marshal; Dave Freeman, collector, and Ed Angier, district attorney. Of course every man here has his own slate, and it is as yet impossi-ble to predict with any degree of certainty who will get a single position in Georgia, and with the exception of the marshalship it is not probable that any of the Georgia spoils will be distributed within a month.

THE VESTIBULE TRAIN.

The through vestibule train on the Piedmont Air Line to the City of Mexico left here at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. It will reach Atlanta at 4:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Colonel P. L. Mynatt, of Atlanta, is here engaged in business befere the supreme court. He is to have a hearing probably on Thursday in the case of J. M. Veach vs. Ada S. Rice.

MORE NOMINATIONS.

Another Batch Sent to the Senate-Confirmation of Previous Appointments. WASHINGTON, March 12.-The president sent the following nominations to the senate today: Arthur C. Mellette, of Watertown, Dakota, governor of Dakota: Luther B. Richardson, of Grand Forke, Dakota, secretary of Dakota; Cornelius H. Hanford, of Washington territory, to be chief justice of the supreme ton territory, to be chief justice of the supreme court of the territory of Washington; George W. Irvin, of Montana, marshal of the United States for the territory of Montana; Smilie U. Chambers, of Indiana, United States attorney for the district of Indiana; George S. Batcheller, of New York, assistant secretary of the treasury, vice Hugh S. Thompson, resigned; James C. Perry, of North Carolina, assistant gurgeon in the marine hospital service of the United States; Albert G. Porter, of Indiana, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Italy; John A. Evander, of Illinois, minister resident and consul general of the United States to Denmark, and nine postmasters in Maine, New York, Michigan and Iowa.

The four nominations sent to the senate yesterday—Paimer, Swift, Washburn and Tichener—were confirmed this afternoon, and today's nominations were referred to the appropriate committees. When the nomination of A. C. Mellete, to be governor of Dakota, was read in executive session, Senator Platt, chairman of the committee on territories, arose and said the committee was ready then to make a unanimous report in favor of confirming the nomination, and it would have been confirmed then and there but for the rule requiring nominations to go to committees and be reported at the next succeeding executive session.

A BUSY DAY.

The President Waited Upon by Several Delegations.

Washington, March 12.—Today was one of the busiest days the president has spent since inauguration. There was a constant stream of callers at the white house during the afternoon, and the president endeavored to see all who came on business. This kept him busily occupied up to 12 o'clock, when he was compelled to close his reception in order to attend a meeting of the cabinet called for that hour.

Several delegations were received during the forence. One of those, headed by A. A. Taylor, of Tennessee, and including delegates from Tennessee, West Virginia and North Carolina, asked for the appointment of R. R. Butler, of Tennessee, as commissioner of Indian affairs. Another with Thomas F. Wilson as spokesman, talked about the governorship of Arizons. Two or three delegations were on hand in regard to the distribution of local offices in the District of Columbia. occupied up to 12, o'clock, when he was con offices in the District of Columbia.

FIGHTING IN CLOSE QUARTERS.

Twenty-Three Prisoners Indulge in a General Fisticuts.

Ozark, Mo., March 12.—[Special.]—About daylight this morning Sheriff Johnson was aroused from sleep by a disturbance in the jail, which, on immediate investigation by the officer, proved to be a general fight among the prisoners. Since court adjourned here last Friday, the Ozark jail has been crowded to its utmost capacity by the ex-Bald Knobbers and other offenders who were committed for failing to pay the fines assessed against them by Judge Hubbard and his jurors. Among the prisoners committed to jail last week is Joe Inman, who incurred the deadly hatred of Chief Walker and the other condemned Knobbers by first giving away the details of the Eden's-Green massacre. Inman was allowed to testify for the state in the prosecution of the Walkers and Matthews, and his STORY OF THE BLOODY RAID told heavily against the chief and the other three knobbers now under sentence of death. While Inman escaped prosecution on the charge of murder on account of his treachery to the bank, he was indicted for various minor regulation offenses to which he pleaded guilty at the recent term of the circuit court. Not being able to pay the fines assessed against him for those knobber misdemeanors, Inman was sent to jail. The betrayer of the knobber

PROTESTED AGAINST BEING LOCKED UP with his former regulating associates, claiming that the Walkers and John Mathews hated him and would certainly seek revenge. It is supposed that the feeling towards Inman provoked the fight this morning and the animosity between the Walkers and Clabe Rucker, growing of the jail delivery, came in for its share in the melee. At any rate the whole twenty-three prisoners were in a general fight when Sheriff Johnson entered the jail and commanded peace. The men had no weapons, but their fists. No one was seriously hurt. The tattered condition of some of the prisoners' clothes and a number of swollen eves

THE TRIAL OF THE ENGINEER. The Evidence Shows That the Collision

had been waged with the genuine knobbler

Could Have Been Prevented. MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., March 12.—The second day of the trial of Engineer Cook, in connec-Superintendent Mitchell, of the Lehigh Valley Railroad company, in the witness box. His testimony was especially damaging to Cook. The defense sought to prove that the headlight from the second engine blinded Cook and prevented him from seeing the red light, but were unable to do so, and they endeavored to prove that some person or persons stood in front of the red lantern, which was used as a signal. It was the custom of the railroad signal. It was the custom of the railroad employes to place a lantern on the platform, and the testimony of the telegraph operators, as well as of four other witnesses, showed that a lantern had been placed on the platform and that one of the engineers blew two whistles which meant they understood or saw the signal. All expert testimony adduced proved that the train was running at the rate of twenty to twenty-five miles an hour, and Engineer Cook could have stopped the train in time to prevent the collision. Of seven witnesse examined, all seemed to concur in the belief that the accident could have been averted by Cook or Major, the engineer of the second locomoor Major, the engineer of the second locomo or Major, the engineer of the second focula-tive. Several witnesses who were in the wrecked cars corroborated the testimony of the railroad officials. All efforts of the coun-sel for the defense to find a flaw in the rules in the railroad company failed. The common-wealth will probably close its case tomorrow. Another Death at Mud Run.

Ottoman Schmidt, of Wilkesbarre, while walking on the track this morning was struck and instantly killed at Mud Run station, by a Lehigh Valley passenger train bearing witnesses and several of the defendants in the Mud Run disaster trials which were in pro-gress in this city. Schmidt's body was mangled almost beyond recognition. This seems to be a singularly fatal spot. In addition to the terrible collision of October last when sixty persons were killed there have been a number of cases recently similar to that of Schmidt. IT IS A HOAX.

That Story About the Yellowstone Park

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 12 .- On Sunday a Cheyenne dispatch gave an account of the killing of five French tourists and the subsequent mutilation of their bodies. The crime was located by the correspondent in the Yellowstone park. Yesterday General Passenger Agent Charles S. Fee, of the Northern Pacific, was seen by an Associated Press correspondent, and made a statement in answer to a question regarding the probability of the story: "The article says Gerry, the guide, was wintering in Montana, and picked up there a party of five French tourists who were en route from the Pacific coast. To have gotten there they must have come over the North-

Mr. Fee then goes into detailed explanation why the story is absurd, and summarizes his conclusions as follows: None of our agents at Livingston, Bozeman or Helena know of any party attempting to make the trip to the park this winter, and Superintendent Lamertine, in charge of the roads and bridges in the park for the past five years, wires me that there is no such place as Rattlesnake Canon in the park, no scout in the park named Gerry and no party of tourists, and that no Indian has been near the park for over two years. Whole report is a hoax on the face of it."

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE GOING TO OKLAHOMA.

SOLDIERS UNABLE TO KEEP THEM OUT Covered Wagons Line the Road to Indian Territory-Boomers Coming From Arkansas and Texas,

DENNISON, Texas, March 12. - [Special.]-A steady stream of immigrants is pouring through this city to the Oklahoma country, land the infection has broken out here. A number of families are preparing to cast their lots with the boomers. At the present time Arkansas and eastern Texas are contributing the largest quota of voters.

Grant Moffatt, a cattle man in the border of Oklahoma, who is in this city today, estimates the number of boomers at Purcell and in the vicinity at fully 5,000. Every train on the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe is loaded with covered wagons. Border ruffians and gamblers of the worst type are plying their avocations among the boomers. Mr. Moffatt says that a number os the boomers crossed the Canadian frontier to Oklahoma last week and are living in dugouts. The soldiers have appeared, but have not molested the intruders and seem to fraternize with them. Mosfatt declares that no power on earth can hold in check the congregated mass of boomers that are now hovering on the borders at Purcell and other points contiguous to Oklahoma. He thinks they will be in Oklahcma in less than thirty days. FORTY ACRES AND A COW.

Besides a Brick House to Live In. Is the Alluring Promise to the Negroes.
RALEIGH, N. C., March 12.—Southern agents, moving negro families to Arkansas, are quietly but successfully at work. Their operations are confined thus far to a few counties on railroad lines, near Goldsboro. The counties are systematically canvassed. Several thousand persons have already gone, and indications point to an extensive movement. Many large plantations are almost deserted. Negro drummers are paid five dollars for each family secured. The entire expense of the transportation to Little Rock is paid by the WHAT THE NEGROES ARE PROMISED.

The negroes say they are promised forty acres of land, a brick house, cow and a dollar and a half per day for labor, and are told that corn sells for nineteen cents per barrel and meal at one-fourth cent per pound. They know nothing of their destination. The removal is by families. Planters in the counties affected are greatly embarrassed at the loss of farm hands at the beginning of the planting

THEY'LL TAKE THEIR TOD. Defeat of the Prohibition Amendment in

New Hampshire.
Boston, March 12.—Only partial returns from the elections are received, but there seems little doubt that the constitutional prohibition amendment has been defeated by a decided majority. Of the cities, Nashua appears the only one voting in favor of the amendment, giving it 202 majority. Carroll and Coos counties are the only ones that show indications of having favored the amendment, although Grafton county may show a smal majority, but not the necessary two-thirds.

There is little doubt of the adoption of all There is little doubt of the adoption of all the other proposed amendments, except one which provides for striking from the bill of rights of the word "Protestant," therehy making the constitution non-sectarian. The fate of this amendment cannot yet be learned, as the returns are very meagre. The prohibitory amendment was the most important issue and comparatively little interest was manifested throughout the state on the other amendments. In Nashua and other cities, vigorous efforts were made by women, who stood all day at the polls soliciting votes, aiding the temperance movement in every possiand bleeding noses told the sheriff the fight stood all day at the polls soliciting votes, aiding the temperance movement in every possible way. Returns from sixty cities and towns give a majority of 4,524. The indications are now that the prohibitory amendment will be defeated by nearly 3,000 votes and all the others adopted. If the remaining towns cast the same relative vote in comparison with that of last fall as those already heard-from, the total vote in the state on the amendment will be about 16,000.

INDIANAPOLIS WELL GUARDED.

Iwo Sets of Policemen and Two Head-quarters. INDIANAPOLIS, March 12.-Indianapolis now has a double police force and two police head-quarters, and nobody can tell how they will secure pay. The board organized under the quarters, and nobody can tell now they will secure pay. The board organized under the bill passed by the legislature met this morning and organized a police force. This force was selected last night, and included a number of officers of the old force. Part of the men reported and were sworn in and assigned to duty. All the men sworn in are democrats, the republicans of the old force declining to accept any part of the part The patrolmen of the new board. The patrolmen of the new board were instructed to avoid a clash with the old force. The new board will file a complaint for possession before a judge and commissioners. The city will at once file an answer, alleging that the bill is unconstitutional because the legis. the bill is unconstitutional, because the legis-lature cannot fill offices by appointment, and because the bills have never been signed by the speaker of the house and lieutenant gov-ernor after their passage, as required by law.

The Situation at Fall River. FALL RIVER, Mass., March 12.—The strike situation in this city is not greatly changed, but appears to favor the weavers. They are firm and only 1,000, out of 4,000 looms, are running. A mass meeting of the striking weavers was held on south park this morning, weavers was held on south park this morning, and the most notable matters in the addresses were as follows: Loom fixers in some mills are being discharged for declining to take the places of striking weavers. Advice was given to boycott the saloons, and offers of football players' services have been made as a means of raising money. The crowd, though large, was remarkably orderly, and not a policeman was in sight. The manufacturers show no change of front.

West Virginia Gubernatorial Contest, CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 12.—The supreme court this morning decided in the Goff-Wilson gubernatorial mandamus case that Governor Wilson is entitled to hold over until such time as the contest between Flemming and Goff shall have been settled, or, in other and Goff shall have been settled, or, in other words, Goff is not entitled to the seat, on the ground that returns were not declared by the legislature. The fight will now be between Wilson and Carr on quo warranto proceedings.

Report of the Accountant to Examine the Books of the Banks.

LONDON, March 12.-The Parnell commission resumed its sitting today. An accounant testified that he had examined the books of Hibernian banks, but was unable to trace the persons to whom the National league's money on cheeks was paid, or whence checks came. Between November, 1879, and September, 1882, the league received £261,269, and paid out £261,276. The bank refused to allow the witness to examine its lodgment slips. The league paid to the Ladies' league £12,306, and to the relief fund £2,025, and disbursed £10,000 in the defense of prisoners.

The witness had also examined the league's books. The total receipts in 1883 amounted to £11,069, of which America sent £1,000 and Australia and New Zealand £8,000. In 1884 the receipts were £11,518, in 1885 £18,000 and in 1886 £17,615.

Arr. Farner gave his assent to such an examination.

Mr. Coffee, a reporter from Cork, testified that he had made the statement to the policeman, who promised him that he should be paid beyond his greatest expectations. Witness declared that the statement was absolutely false. This evidence created a sensation in the courtroop lutely false. This evidence created a sensation in the courtroom.

Mr. Coffee further testified that he purposely made the statement which he gave to the policeman sensational, because he knew it would take. He received £115 from the Times.

Presiding Justice Hannen repeatedly rebuked witness sharply for contempt and finally ordered that he be taken into custody. The commission then adjourned.

Attorney-General Webster said that owing to the illness of a witness, he was unable to present the necessary evidence with reference to the O'Kelly letters. He hoped that tomorrow he would be able to produce this witness and conclude the case for the Times.

A GREAT PARNELL MEETING.

The Mother of the Patriot Present-Money Raised for the Fund.

PHILADELPHIA, March 12 .- A meeting of the citizens of this city to express confidence in the integrity and patriotism of Charles Stewart Parnell was held at the Academy of Music tonight. The meeting was one of the largest of the kind ever held in the city. Every inch of space in the large building was occupied, the crowd being estimated at nearly 5,000 persons, while the doors were closed before 8 o'clock to keep out the crowds; clamoring for admission.

Mrs. Delia S. Parnell, mother of the Irish patriot, was greeted with enthusiastic applause, as she entered a private box. The large stage of the academy was filed with representatives, professional men and private citizens. Governor Beaver presided over the meeting, which was addressed by Senator John C. Spooner, of Wisconsin; ex-Governor Curtin, of Pennsylvania; Charles Emory Smith, of the Philadelphia Times, and many others. At the conclusion of the speaking a subscription was started for the Parnell fund, and $8,000 was realized, including $500 each from George W. Childs and A. J. Drexel.

THE COPPER CORNER,

The News From France Makes the Holders Feel Easier New York, March 12.-The news from abroad in reference to the copper syndicate was of a less excited nature this morning. The action of the prominent London bankers, the Mathesons, yesterday, in comin g forward and assuming control of the syndicate's affairs, has had a reassuring effect upon the foreign market, and today Chili bars improved £4 on the spot and £5 on futures. Cables from Lonthe spot and £5 on futures. Cables from London to the exchange stated that the market was firm at the advance. From Paris the intelligence came that the Societe des Metaux shares were quoted at 150 francs and Rio Tinto at 245 francs. Despite the improvement in the foreign market the operators here were not inclined to take hold of the metal today. The lake copper call passed without a bid being received, and offers for good merchandis brands were purely nominal and no sales resulted.

Bears on the exchange shook their heads Bears on the exchange shook their heads ominiously when improved foreign cables came in and argued that Matheson's action vesterday was prompted with a view of affording a loophole for the Rotchschilds to get out of the French corporation. A further improvement of 24 or 25, the shorts said, in the London figures, would not be surprising. When the prices had reached 250 or thereabouts for spot Chili bars, the bears further argued, moneyed men at the head of the syndicate would quickly dispose of the stock, and leave the monopoly to its ultimate fate. All the financial aid received by the syndicate of late is attributed by many to this cause.

London, March 12.—In the house of commons tonight the government was questioned with reference to the statements made by the novelist, Robert L. Stevenson, writing from Hawaii, regarding the objectionable conduct of the German consul, Knappe, in Samoa.

Sir James Ferguson, under foreign secretary, in reply admitted that Mr. Stevenson's statements were correct, but he pointed out that Germany had since recalled the offending consul. The under secretary promised that papers covering the subject should be laid before parliament.

Lord George Hamilton, first lord of the admirality, announced that Australia had promised to give 35,000 annually for ten years toward the building of the proposed new ships of war, also to fully maintain the vessels when completed.

Parliamentary Election.

Parliamentary Election.

London, March 12.—An election held in Barnsley division of Yorkshire, to fill the vacancy in the house of commons caused by the retirement of Stanhope Kenny, liberal, resulted in the return of Lord Compton, Gladstonian, who received 6,262 votes against 3,781 for his opponent, Bruce Wentworth, conservative. At the last election Kenny received 5,425 votes and Wentworth 2,917.

The Missionaries Released.

Suing the Times.

London, March 12.—Henry Campbell, M. P., private secretary of Mr. Parnell, has brought suit for libel against the London Times. The case has been set for hearing, and the trial will probably take place in May. The suit is founded partly on the opening speech made by Attorney General Webster in the case of O'Donell vs. Waiter, and partly on a leading editorial published by the Times on July 7th last. This is the first of a series of suits to be brought against the Times.

The American Eagle is Trying to Spread Its

Wings-A Little Annexation Talk in the Senate-The Senate Committees. WASHINGTON, March 12.- In the continued bsence of the vice president, Mr. Ingalls acted today, as yesterday, as presiding officer pro tem. of the senate. A message of the president transmitting papers in the case of Louis Riel was presented and laid on the table.

After a wait of several minutes, Mr. Ednunds broke the stillness by the state that he had been requested by Mr. Platt to say that the gentlemen representing both sides of the chamber, who had in charge the recommendations for the committees of the senate, would be ready to call attention to the subject in a very short time, and to ask the senate to remain in session or to take a short senate continued in session without any at-

At 12:15 Mr. Platt asked and obtained unanimous consent to have suspended so much of the rules as required standing committees to be elected by a vote, and, as required, the election of a committee on expenditures of public moneys, that committee to be represented by one on the organization, conduct and expenditures of the executive departments.

ELECTION OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

Mr. Platt then offered a resolution, which was agreed to, for the election of standing ommittees, a full list of which was embodied

Mr. Platt next offered a resolution appointng select committees, with a full list named in like manuer.

Mr. Payne called attention to the select committee on relations with Canada, and moved to strike it out of the list.

Upon this motion a long and interesting de-

Mr. Payne said he regarded such an investigation by a committee of the senate as usurpa-tory of the functions of the executive. He also looked upon the appointment of a select committee on the subject as an interference with the duties of the committee on foreign

Mr. Hoar explained that on account of the lateness of the long session and of the political campaign which followed it, the special committee appointed at the first session of the last congress on his motion had not been able to discharge its duties and, therefore, it was decided to renew the appointment. It was useless, he said, to be blind to the fact, and no discretion required silence as to it, that there was a large and growing body of men in Canada

THAT DESIRE ANNEXATION

THAT DESIRE ANNEXATION to the United States. But nobody proposed to accomplish it without the free and intelligent and instructed will of the people of both countries. So far from there being a thought of disrespect to the last executive in the original appointment of the committee, the proposition had met with the hearty concurence of democratic senators, who were supposed to have been in the closet relations of confidence with President Cleveland.

Mr. Cullom did not think there could be too much investigation into the relations existing and to exist, between the United States and Canada. He very much desired that such investigation and progress should be made as would ultimately result in the two countries becoming one. ountries. So far from there being a thought becoming one.

Mr. Sherman favored the appointment of a select committee. He did not believe that, with the long-stretching border between them, the two countries could long continue in peace. There would be a great nation springing up to the notth of the United States, and that fact WOULD NECESSITATE A STANDING ARMY on each side, which would endanger the republican form of government. Mr. Edmunds said that he would vote for the standing committee, but with the reserve that the vote would not commit him to the idea of favoring annexation or a political union. The step once taken would be indis-

union. The step once taken would be indissoluble.

Mr. Hale also favored the appointment of the committee, but did not consider it in any sense an annexation committee, or that its bent or purpose was to favor annexation.

Mr. Morrill said that he was quite willing to have the committee appointed, as it afforded an opportunity for steam to be blown off on the question. He regarded the whole agitation of the subject as preposterous, as there never had been a time when Canada was more loyal to Great Britain than she was now.

Mr. Sherman said he did not desire at all to hasten the matter of political union. It to hasten the matter of political union. It would have to be a popular movement and not a movement on the part of the governments. He believed that the people of the United States and of Canada would gradually

MELT INTO ONE GOVERNMENT and be under the same common flag, with, (he trusted), the hearty good will of the mother country. Mr Blair disclaimed the inferences to be drawn from the remarks of the Vermont senator that New England was not in favor of political union. He believed that the feeling there was as strong as in any other portion of the United States.

United States.

Mr. Butler suggested that if it were given out that the select committee had an intention of considering the question of annexation, its members would be arrested as filibusters when they crossed the line. Mr. Butler is a member of the committee.

Mr. Frye favored the appointment of the committee and spoke of the necessity of obtaining commercial and other statistics, but declared that any movement on part of the United States looking towards annexation would be a profound mistake and would only retard it.

After further debate in the same general line Mr. Payne withdrew his motion and all the select committees were agreed to. And after a short executive session, the senate adjourned. CHAIRMANSHIP OF COMMITTEES.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 16, 1888

DEAR SIR—With much pleasure I am happy to say I am a well woman today, and have gained 37 pounds since I stopped taking morphine. After taking the first dose of your medicine did not want any more morphine, and my friends who saw me a month before I started to taking your medicine do not know me. You have made me a well and hearty woman, and I hope God will bless you and that you may cure all afflicted, for when a woman gets into the habit she had as well be dead. When I left Cedar Keys and came here, and when your medicine gave out I was all right. I wanted to wait and see if I would remain so. Doctor, you can use my name would remain so. Doctor, you can use my name if you wish. I was taking six grains morphine a day. Your obedient servant and sincere friend,

THE FAST OF PRISONER ADAMS IN MACON.

He is At the Point of Death, But Still Refuses to Allow Food to Pass His Lips-A Visit to the House. Macon, Ga., March 12.-[Staff Correspondence Constitution. )- Here in Macon is one of the most superhaman exhibitions of will power that the world has furnished.

Here is a sensitive, high-strung man, who has hardly been out of the path between his home and his office in five years, refusing food when hunger is gnawing at his vitals, and bearing with unflinching fortitude the unspeakable agony of starvation, in the midst of savory oders and in reach of tempting viands.

Hunger has made men cannibals. Ship-wrecked men crazed by it have killed and caten their weaker comrades, and men have torn the flesh from their own arms in the frenzy of starvation-but here is a man who suffered all the agony the shipwreck, with the added torture of odors sent up from the dining room below his cell, bearing THE TORTUBE DAY AFTER DAY, when a word would have ended his sufferings; and at last, when his system is too weak for pain, and even breathing is a burden, calmly waiting and welcoming death.

And yet this man would not take his own life. "Suicides," he says, "are brutal" and rather than take his life by his own hand he will undergo the thousand deaths that nature inflicts, and witness a'l the grief of the family in advance. And yet this man, by his own admission, has been doing business for several years on forged paper, but for all that he was paying the forged notes when they came due, and had been doing so for a long time. In fact, he had pursued the system so successfully that during the past year he had materially reduced his indebtedness, and at the same rate would have worked himself clear in a year or so. At almost any time within the last year or two he could have gone to Canada with plenty of money; instead of that he remained at home attending closely to business during the summer time when cotton men usually take recreation. He enjoyed the confidence of business men because his habits were remarkably good and there were none of the signs of wastefulness that usually betray men who are systematically preparing to de-fraud their creditors. There was every evidence that he was making a determined and skillful effort to work out of the toils into which his weakness and a fatal facility with the pen had brought him.

At last the forgery was detected by the Capital bank, and Adams was called in to tell how he came into possession of the notes. He acknowledged what he had done and, his friends say, agreed to assign to the bank his life insurance of $18,000 on a promise that he would not be prosecuted. However this may be he assigned the policies to the bank, AND WAS ARRESTED AT ONCE.

The turning of the jailer's key broke h heart. He says a lump came into his throat and he could not eat that day, and was only able to drink a little coffee. With the disinclination to eat the idea of starvation came into his mind. He seems to have gotten the idea that the bank wanted his life and to have concluded that if he could pay part of his indebtedness with his insurance pay part of mished the state of the pay it that way. The idea of atonement for his sin was associated with the other, and he seemed to have concluded that by suffering to pay his debt he could purge his soul of sin.

During the week that he remained in jail

Adams was in a cell just over the dining room and at meal times the odor of the steaming viands added to his suffering. At first he refused to see a physician, saying that he was not willing to be given nourishment by artifice, but finally on the piea of making him more comfortable, he submitted to the attendance of Dr. K. P. Moore, the family physician. Dr. Moore sought to gain his confidence and then prepared him a prescription, which in-cluded extract of beef and some farinaceous and asked his brother the direct question: "Is to undergo the operation. When he first announced! his intention to starve himself to death, he begged his parents not to try to force food on him as he had fully made up his mind and they could not change his determination, but would only distress him y insisting, and if food should be forced down his throat it would only prolong his agony and cause him to go through it all again.

All the entreaties of distressed affection have failed to move him. He has eluded the physicans' strategy, and, unwilling to use force, his family have accepted the inevitable.

Several days ago, after Adams had become very weak, Dr. Moore told the parents that he could insert a stomach tube, with the assist ance of the attendant, and get some nourish ment into the stomach of the starving man As Adams had told them so positively that this would only prolong the agony, his parents and the pump was not brought into requisition Poor stricken nature rebelled against the iron will, and when the mind was loosed in sleep Adams dreamed that he was eating. Waking, he told his dream calmly, and con tinued the fast with unshaken resolution.

"That man would let you chop off his fingers inch by inch without flinching, before he would take food," said a gentleman who has been with him. "It is the most wonderful case I ever saw, and it opens a new field of metaphysics. His mind is perfectly clear, and he is acting in a line of conduct that he has reasoned out. He seems to feel that there is nothing in this life for him, and that there is comething for him in the life to come. There is an aberration of some kind I am satisfied, but misguided as he is there is something heroic in his determination.

The prolonged agony of the family and the suffering of the starving man have touched the hearts of the sympathetic, and several min isters have been to see him. He talks with them freely and seems to enjoy their visits. Rev. J. R. Winchester, of Christ's church, visits him every day.

Adams has always shown great strength of purpose. He was so as a schoolboy, and when he went to jail and refused to eat, a gentleman who had been to school with him predicted that he would ile just what he said.

LIKELY TO DIE AT ANY MOMENT. This morning I called at the Adams house, a large, old fassioned white house, with big columns, set on an eminence in a large vard in South Macon. At the door I met Mr. Robert Adams, who fold me that his brother had grown worse during the night, and was likely to die at any moment. "He has no fear of death," he, "and talks beautifully about it to all of us His will is as strong as ever, but he is now past medical aid, even if his will were broken. He told us that he suffered at first, but that is all over. He has no pain at all, though his mind is perfectly clear. A Woman Scalded to Death.

"As to whether his course is due to a mental aberration I hardly know. He has always had a very streng will, and he is very sensitive and would rather die than go into court. He old me that the bank people promised to be his felends and would not prosecute him if he would assign his life insurance to them. He

REMARKABLE WILL POWER | did so, and they had the warrants ready and waiting and had him arrested just as soon as he assigned to them. Putting him in jail killed him. They crowded him to the wall; they wanted his blood, and they are guilty of his murder. "They put him in jail because they thought he would kill himself, and they would get the insurance money at once. He did not do that for several reasons. One was because he was unwilling to commit suicide, and another he said was that he wanted time to prepare for the other world. He believes that he is making

AN ATONEMENT BY HIS SUFFERING. "His exhibition of will power is marvelous. The doctor and Rev. Mr. Winchester said it was the most wonderful case they ever heard Returning I called on Mr. Virgin, the cashier of the Capital bank, and asked him whether the bank had promised Adams not to prosecute him if he assigned the insurance. "We did not, and I am willing to swear it.

There were no threats or promises. They are trying to work up sympathy for him and expect us to turn him loose on the com-munity when we have $20,000 worth of his forged paper. We might as well open the penitentiary.
"Why, to show you what is being done I got a bucket letter and I will show it to you but you must not publish it."

"I am on strictly professional business and you had better not show me anything you don't want published," I replied, and he put the letter up. To the question, "What conversation passed etween you and Adams?" he replied: "I don't feel called on to tell what was said, but I state positively that WE MADE NO THREATS OR PROMISES. On the contrary, when his brother came in to assign $6,000 worth of insurance to us, we asked him if it was done voluntarily, and told him the transfer would be void if it was done under Mr. Virgin then showed a package of cottor receipts with forged notes that had been attacked. The names on the notes were those of reputable men, and the imitation of their signatures was cleverly done, though when the notes were spread out together there was a similarity in all the signatures. This similarity caused the investigation which led to the discovery. "When he came in here," said Mr. Virgin, he made a clean breast of it, and said he was glad that it was over, as he had been expect-ing it, and it had been hell to him. There were four or five bank officials present when he was here, and we are not afraid to disclose everything that was done."

Gentlemen who knew John Adams say that at school he was considered curious, though a quiet boy, who generally carried out whatever he purposed to do. As a young man, he said little during business hours, but after work was done he would converse freely about books. He was a great reader, and was especially fond of history. He read English history a great deal, and took great interest in the career of Napoleon.

There was nothing remarkable about his ersonal appearance, and he was known in the community as a sensitive man, of quiet, retiring disposition. He was never known to take a drink, and his friends say he was remarkably free from sensuality. He is now about 39 years of age and unmarried. His surroundings at home must have been pleasant, for he was almost always there after busi-

It is a remarkable case, and one that excites sympathy with some and a curious interest with others. The man seems to have been full of the spirit of the monks who crucified their flesh for the sake of their souls, or the Moslem devotees who made a causeway of their bodies for the prophet to ride over. The curious mixture of moral qualities which would allow his business methods and yet would restrain him from summary suicide and cause him to undergo the prolonged starvation, make a problem that will puzzle the metaphysicians to unravel.

A SKELETON UNEARTHED, With Iron Shackles Around the Leg Bones-Some Little Excitement.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 12.—[Special.]—Quite a wave of excitement passed over the section of the city near Lincoln and Jones there any nourishment in that prescription?"
His brother hesitated and the prescription was refused.

A short time later an entire skeleton was disclosed. It was that of a man of average height. On one of the legs was an iron shackle with part of a well-rusted chain attached.

The find created a sensation. Judge Philip M. Russell, when spoken to in reference to the matter this afternoon, stated that in ante bellum days there was a cemetery for paupers in that neighborhood. He does not think it extended to the spot where the skeletons were discovered, and is inclined, in view of the shackles, to accept the convict theory, although it seems strange that this iron link and chain were not removed for use on some other unvere not removed for use on some other un-

A New Hotel for Americus.

A New Hotel for Americus.

Americus, Ga., March 12.—(Special.)—The prespects for the building of a mammoth winter resort hotel in Americus at an early date is very bright. Just now Major Moses Speer, who has taken an active interest in the mattor, has just returned from a hurried trip to New York, where he succeeded in securing nearly the entire amount of capital needed for the enterprise. The hotel is expected to cost about $125,000, of which amount only $30,000 is asked of the citizens of Americus. This sum can be raised without difficulty in a day or two. The city has given a square in the center of business worth $25,000 upon which the proposed hotel will be built.

Subscription lists will be opened tomorrow, and the success of the enterprise will be definitely settled by the last of the week.

A Boy's Hand Torn to Pieces A Boy's Hand Torn to Pleces.

ZEBULON, Ga., March 12.—[Special.]—Little Elder Malair, a ten-year-old boy of our town, happened to a painful accident a day or two since. He struck fire to a dynamite cap, which a little friend had found and given him, and the result was an explosion, which tore the little fellow's left hand to pieces. Two fingers had to be amputated and the others are in a terribly mutilated icondition. Dr. Head performed the surgical covertion, and dressed performed the surgical operation and dressed the wound, The sufferer is doing as well as could be expected. It is thought that the dynamite cap was accidentally dropped by parties, who some time ago, used dynamite in blasting rock from the railroad track.

Lumpkin's New Bank,

LUMPKIN, Ga., March 12—[Special.]—An earnest effort has been made for some time past by some of our citizens to raise enough money to organize "The Bank of Stewart county," the charter of which institution was granted by the legislature in 1887. The amount required by the charter is thirty thousands dollars and at last it has been raised and the steekbelders will meet some to organize the stockholders will meet soon to organize. A gentleman from Americus has agreed to furnish twenty thousand more, which will start the bank with $50,000 capital.

A FRUITLESS DAY

IN OBTAINING A JURY IN THE WOOLFOLK CASE.

Tom Gets Mad About His Being Taken to Jail to Dine and Tries to Fight the Sheriff. MACON, Ga., March 12 .- [Special.]-Although nine jurors were accepted and sworn yesterday in the Woolfolk case, the entire session of the court today was spent in a fruitless effort to obtain the other three needed jurors. The sheriff's deputies scoured the city last night and today for jurors, but when court opened this morning at nine o'clock a panel of forty-eight had not been obtained and it was nearly 11 o'clock before the panel was com-THE DEFENDANT CHALLENGES.

When the panel was put upon the defend-ant, Captain Rutherford arose and challenged the array. He claimed that it was not organized and made up according to law and the code. He also challenged it on the ground that some of the jurors were summoned by Deputy Sheriff Victor Menard, who, Captain Rutherford alleged, had told a witness, Mr. Smith Hart, that if he testified to what he was Smith Harf, that if he essented to what he was summoned to testify, he might get into trouble, and Captain Rutherford said the attention of the court had been called to Mr. Menard's action. Captain Rutherford said he did not think Mr. Menard would again be entrusted to Judge Gustin asked Captain Rutherford to Judge Gustin asked Captain Rutherford to produce the evidence in substantiation of what he charged.

Accordingly Captain Rutherford called Mr. Smith Hart to the witness stand.

Mr. Smith, sworn, said:
Mr. Menard said I had better know what I was doing when I got on the stand. It was in reference to what I might say about Mr. Bone Davis. He said I might be convicted of perjury. The conversation occurred on the street car today one week ago, near the Wesleyan college. I received a subpena, and went to Mr. Menard and told him I would like to get off. He said to come to the court house the next morning, and he would try and get me off. I told him I thought I was summoned in regard to Mr. Bone Davis, to the effect that I would not believe Mr. Done Davis on his oath. He told me I had better mind how I said I would not believe Mr. Bone Davis on his oath. Mr. Menard asked me why I was summoned, and I told him I thought about Mr. Bone Davis.

Deputy Sheriff Menard was sworn: He said in effect that he did not know Mr. Smith Hart, and did not know who gentleman who said in effect that he did not know Mr. Smith Hart, and did not know the gentleman who had just testified as Smith Hart. Mr. Menard sald it was a hard thing to swear that he would not believe a man on his oath, and if a man so swearing could not prove it he would be prosecuted for perjury. TRYING TO GET JURORS.

Judge Gustin then directed Clerk Adams to call the roll of jurors, and the names of forty-eight were put through the examination and asked the three usual statutory questions, whether or not they had formed an opinion, were prejudiced or their minds were impartial. Out of the forty-eight jurors only three qualified, namely: Mr. Henry Jordan. He was accepted by the state, but was rejected by defendant, which made defendant's "strikes" eighteen. The next juror to qualify was Mr. eighteen. The next juror to qualify was Mr. James Hicks. He was accepted by the state, but Captain Rutherford found that Hicks's name was not in the jury box, and the juror name was not in the jury box, and the juror was excused by the court for cause. The third man to qualify was Mr. W. T. Phillips. The state rejected him. The call of the panel was then continuen until all the forty-eight were exhausted, and there being no other jurors to examine, court took a recess at noon until three o'clock this afternoon, and the sheriff was instructed to automorp were juvered.

He said he had not formed or expressed any opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused from having heard any of the evidence delivered under oath. His answer, however, conveyed the idea that he had some opinion or idea about the matter. He also said that he had heard a little of the evidence. He said he had no bias or prejudice against the prisoner, and his mind was perfectly impartial. Captain Rutherford held that Mr. Jones was not a competent juror. The court undertook to explain to Mr. Jones the full legal meaning of the terms embraced in the statutory questions, and the solicitor-general again asked Mr. Jones the questions, and he answered them as he did in the first instance. As regards the number of jurors—nine— the case stands tonight exactly where it did last night when court adjourned.

There are about one hundred more names in the jury box, but these parties are scattered promiscuously about the county and it will take much work to gather them in.

Out of sixty-eight jurors examined today no nor was accepted.
Out of those to be examined tomorrow, will three be chosen? Perhaps. Developments alone will show.

WALKER HERE.

This morning at half past nine o'clock, Atcorney Frank Walker, of Atlanta, entered the courtroom for the first time since the comnencement of the trial, March 4th. He shock hands with Woolfolk and the prisoner seemed glad to see the man who was his first and original attorney. When the sheriff went for Woolfolk after dinner Woolfolk acted indecently at the jail, cursed the sheriff severely and did not want to return to the courthouse in a hack. He kept pulling from the sheriff, cursing him, and dared the sheriff to strike nim. The sheriff had no thought of striking him. Woolfolk created quite a scene. The report circulated throughout the city tonight that Woolfolk is feighing lunacy is not true. He was simply angry that he could not eat dinner at the courthouse.

AN INTERESTING MEETING.

Held by the Macon Board of Trade-Several Matters Discussed.

Macon, Ga., March 12.—[Special.]—The board of trade held a very interesting meeting this afternoon, presided over by President Ben this afternoon, presided over by President Ben C. Smith.

By invitation, Mr. Dean Newman, president of the Savannah post of the Southern Travelers' association, appeared before the meeting and addressed the body, explaining the objects of the association and its features, etc., one of which was that merchants and employes were invited to become members of the association as well as travelers. The board of trade and merchants of Macon generally are invited to attend theconvention of the association in Savannah in May next.

A committee consisting of Messrs. J. F. Hanson, T. W. Troy and L. E. Culver were appointed on enrollment of Macon members in the association.

The attention of the board of trade was called to the fact that no tickets were on sale from Barnesville to Macon on the Central railroad via the 10:05 train, and parties coming to Macon, with lay over privileges. The question of better rates from Macon to Culloden was discussed. Messrs. T. D. Tinsley, W. A. Doody and A. B. Small were appointed to try and have these matters remedied.

Much discussion was also given to the charges made against the Central railroad from want of accommodation, and impositions on the merchants of Macon by the road in the matter of over charges, etc. Messrs. J. F. Hanson, T. D. Tinsley, W. A. Doody and H. C. Tindall were appointed a committee to draft some plan to be submitted to the board of trade for protection from the evils complained of, whether said protection shall be made through the courts or by further legislation for enlarging the powers of the railroad commission.

The question of opening the Ocmulgee river trans Macon to Hawkinsville, was also discrete.

commission.

The question of opening the Ocmulgee river from Macon to Hawkinsville was also discussed, but action was postponed and Messrs. R. E. Park, George T. Harris, A. G. Butts and Judge Charles Kibbee were appointed to report on the question at another meeting of the board.

Captain Park Opens the Ball With a Liberal Subscription.

Macon, Ge., March 12.—[Special.]—Macon is very anxious to obtain the experimental farm, and will no doubt make liberal subscriptions to that end. At a recent meeting of the joint committees from city and country on the question of obtaining the location of the farm here, Mr. Nisbet was appointed to advertise for offers of land and subscriptions.

The first offers received by him were the following from Captain R. E. Park. He offers to be one of twenty to give $250 each for the location of the farm in Bibb county. He also offers one hundred acres, with house improvements at Holton, and $500 cash if the farm is located at Holton. He is also authorized to offer the Holton Farmers' club building and four acres of land.

THE SUNDAY CONSTITUTION $2 A YEAR, SENT TO ANY ADDRESS

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 13, 1889. The Late Captain F. W. Dawson.

In the death of Captain Dawson, of the Charleston News and Courier, reported elsewhere, southern journalism sustains an irreparable loss.

Captain Dawson was a masterful man. He held his position as the head of Carolina journalism-and, indeed, the head of affairs in Carolina-by the force and power of his nature, rather than by tact or management. And at last his position as leader had come to be practically undisputed. To his infinite and lasting honor it can be said that this leadership has never been abused, its opportunities never wasted, its power never prostituted, its suggestions never misdirected. South Carolina is a better and a more prosperous state because he lived in it and gave his life freely and daily to her service. For as much to be written in truth and sincerity, as this is written of him, over their graves, the best and proudest men might be willing to toil through life and to meet Death at last, as he met it, unfearing and tranquil. To have made the state better for having lived in it, and its people happier for having moved among them-no better than this could be said of any man; and this, in deep and sorrowful. conviction, we write of F. W. Dawson tonight.

In the differences that come between all self-respecting journalists we have had our frequent jousts with this gallant and lamented gentleman. It is pleasant, even in this hour of grief, to remember that never for an instant, did the pen of either rankle in the breast of the other, or even the heat of discussion disturb the deep and earnest friendship that for years existed between us. Within the past month we had from his hand a letter so full of manly and generous appreciation of a trifling courtesy, that it carried back a fraternal letter, the sentiment of which, we may hope tonight, abided with him to his death. In spite of their differences, editors, we think, stand closer to each other at last, than men of any other profession. Though apart, they are essentially together. Every day they see what is best and brightest of each other, and, reading between the lines, as laymen may not do, they breed a sort of comradeship, akin to that of the shoulder-to-shoulder brotherhood of the march and the camp! And tonight, thinking of the gentle and handsome face that is stilled tonight in death-of the courtly and gracious form, now fallen forevermore-of the brave and hopeful personality which but this very morning we followed through the columns of his paper, but now blotted from earth and from men, we feel something of the keenness of bereavement that touches those who gather about his bier and through a mist of tears look down on the smitten lips and the folded hands! From this, issues thoughts that may not be writ down or uttered-but that cred! So from this midnight desk, a fellow toiler, whose work is not yet ended, and who hath not yet found release from the struggle and the conflict, sends up this prayer: "God keep thee, comrade! God rest thy soul in peace, thou golden-hearted

A Shameless Deal.

The new president, we may be sure, is not as happy now as when he was plain General or Brother Harrison, of Indianapolis, when he could attend church without attracting any attention, or play a sociable game of whist without startling the nation. But all this is changed now. He is no longer plain Mr. Harrison. He has been elected to a position that will give him no time for whist or for religious duties. Every hour of the twenty-four, when he is not engaged in giving vent to the genuine Indianian snore (the peculiar resonance of which must be heard to be appreciated) he must devote to considering the claims of unknown people to office.

It is one thing to be a one-horse lawyer in a country town, and quite another to be selected to deal out offices to the elect. General Harrison's esteemed grandfather stood "the racket," so to speak, just one month, and then he gave way to a successor. It is our hope that the new president will outlast the rascals who are swarming around him hunting for office. We trust he will survive, for it would be a great blow to republican government to see Morton the president. Morton is no doubt a very clever man to those who like that sort of a man; but money is his god, and his money made him vice-president.

The republican party, shameless always, never made a more shameless deal for campaign funds than when it made Morton vice-president.

The Sweet Offices of Charity.

A very queer question has arisen among the British politicians, and it is a question that has to do with charity. When Pigott, the perjurer and forger, blew out what little brains he had he left four children quite penniless. These little ones, innocent as well as ignorant of the brutal attempt of their father to break down the Irish cause for a price, must inevitably suffer if the sweet offices of charity do not come to their

Under all the circumstances it would seem to be the proper thing for the London Times to pension these unfortunate little ones, since the perjuries and forgeries of their father were undertaken at the instance and by the invitation of the editors and proprietors of the great English paper. And yet, we may be sure that the Times will not undertake to relieve the Pigott children. But these innocent and unfortunate children will not be permitted to suffer. They are in no wise responsible for their father's forgeries and perjuries. Mr. Parnell, who is fighting for a great cause, has had his at tention called to the condition of these children and he has intimated that he will not see them starve. These children certainly have no claims on the charity of Mr. Parnell, for it was to ruin him that their father's forgeries were concocted and his perjuries uttered. Nevertheless, the great Irish leader rises, as he has often risen, above the confusion that surrounds him, and proposes to contribute to the welfare and comfort of the Pigott children. In this business, Mr. Labouchere, the great radical cynic and editor of Truth, is not far behind Mr. Parnell. He thinks the London Times ought to look after these orphans, but he writes to the Pall Mall Gazette: "Their father was a clever man, and his career and end were sad. My doctor told me this morning that it was all due to a place in his head, which ought to contain something moral, being a cavity. Anyhow, I am sorry for his children, and if ou start a subscription I will send you £50." This is very good for Labouchere, and it shows that the Pigott orphans are not likely to suffer, whether the poor Times moves in the matter or not.

Tippee Tib Discusses a Problem. Tippu Tib, the friend of Explorer Stanley, is one of the most powerful Arab potentates in Central Africa. He is the sovereign lord of a vast territory, and thousands of dusky servitors call him their master. Lieutenant Becker, the African traveler, once met him on the way to Zanzibar, with a thousand slaves guarding his ivory. In his retinue were two thousand more slaves carrying merchandise.

This magnificent barbarian has a bright mind and talks well. He defended slavery to Becker, and asked how the whites could have the effrontery to propose to abolish an institution in Africa which recently flourished in their own countries. He had heard of the serfs in Russia and the slaves in the United States, and said that he understood great misery had come upon them since their emancipation. Slavery, Tippu argues, is not immoral or debasing, because it betters a negro's condition to take him from under the rule of a black tyrant and put him to work where he will be kindly treated by a superior race, and he contends that the Arab masters are benevolent and just. He is satisfied that slaves are not treated as inhumanly as he has seen travelers treat their white servants. The great slave owner also declares that it cannot be immoral to take a lot of men who are stealing their food and compel them to work for their bread. So far from desiring the abolition of slavery at present, he hopes to see it embrace all the savages in Africa, as it is the only way to prepare them for civilization and good government. "Freedom," he says, "from the African license to steal, kill and get drunk." Of course, Tippu Tib never heard of Thomas Carlyle, but he talks very much like that great philosopher. When the emancipation of our slaves was discussed, during the civil war, Carlyle wrote to an American friend: "After all, what does it matter whether a master owns or hires his The arguments used by the shrewd Arab sound remarkably like the utterances of a long line of American statesmen and divines when their voices were uplifted in defense of their favorite institution. But Tippu's talk will not save him. The on-rolling tide of white civilization will soon engulf him, and his days of masterdom will be cut short. Slavery in Africa

The Story of Two Lives. A butterfly and a toiler!

A life of idleness and pleasure, and a life of work and pain.

These sharp contrasts appear in a newspaper clipping, accidentally scissored and casually glanced at. On one side of the slip is the story of Sadie Martinot: on the other is an account of the last days of Philip Welch.

In a darkened room in our great metropolis the queen of Bohemia lies dying. Pretty Sadie Martinot, the most brilliant and daring, the gavest and most winsome woman of her circle, is now face to face with her fate. A few months ago this woman's magnetism drew around her the brightest men of the city. They courted her and flattered her, and her word was law. In her luxurious rooms she held regular levees. and the ladies who drew their skirts aside when they met her never in all their lives attracted such brilliant assemblages of wit and wisdom and chivalry. Occasionally Sadie flew to the stage for amusement, and New York went wild over her. Then she would impulsively turn her back on the adoring public and go back to her old life-her loved Bohemia. But there had to be an end to all this, and the woman who thought that she had a world of admirers at her feet is gasping out her life, neglected and forgotten. Her poor old mother said to a reporter the other day: "Ah, she did not have so many friends, after all; and she so longs for sympathy that when one of you gentlemen calls she begs for his card. Everybody has forgotten her!" This is the end of the butterfly. The life of pleasure and sunshine is going out in utter darkness.

How different the story of the toiler! Propped on his pillows in a hospital, plucky Philip Welch, the hard-working newspaper man, sat day after day furnishing copy for papers and magazines. A cancer was gnawing at his vitals. The surgeon's knife had cut off his tongue, and had claimed a pound of flesh next to his heart. But he wrote on. He had his contracts to carry out. He had a wife and four children to support. He did not faint or cry out in despair. In the very agony of death he controlled himself by a supreme effort, and scribbled the jokes that were to amuse millions of readers from the lakes to the gulf. Philip Welch did not suffer neglect, nor was he forgotten. The heroism, patience and fortitude of the worker rallied about him loving friends and even strangers. Men felt that a noble life was ending, and there was a spontaneous outpouring of sympathy. Death came to the relief of the sufferer, but with him the grave is not the end.

It was passing strange that the record of two such opposite lives should be found on the same slip of paper. The two stories point their own moral, and fortunate are the men and women who have the clearness of vision to see it and the courage and strength to profit by it.

The Exposition at Last Assured. There remains to be subscribed to assure the exposition to Atlanta this fall but That amount must be raised by four o'clock this afternoon, when the directors will meet to finally settle the matter. We feel sure that a simple statement of this fact is enough to secure the amount by that time. The exposition for this year can be cast on very large lines, and made an unprecedented success. In the former exposition the energies of the directors were almost absorbed by the miraculously quick building and preparation necessary. that is done, and the daily meetings of the board that will be held for the present spring and summer will be simply for making a great show and establishing the exposition in such directions as will result in the greatest good to the south.

Only $1,000 is needed, but that must be subscribed before the meeting at four o'clock this afternoon. Let everybody who has not subscribed do so at once.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

In these days nearly every busy writer must have a stenographer and a type writer. But in the old days some men managed to get through a good deal of work. Walter Scott spent his youth drawing up dry law papers. Once he wrote 150 folio pages without stopping to eat or rest. In one year he wrote nearly all of his "Life of Swift," two-thirds of "Waverly," the "Lord of the Isles," two essays for the Encyclopedia Britannica, several smaller matters, and found time for an immense correspondence and a trip of two months to the Hebrides He wrote his novel of "Guy Mannering" in six weeks. The amount of work accomplished by this energetic man was far greater in quantity than that disposed of by the average literary man of today, even with the aid of a typewriter.

It is the case of Dr Joseph Garreston, of Cincinnati, who died at the advanced age of eighty years; for sixty-two years of his life he never drank a cup of tea or coffee; for fifty years he ate no meat; for twenty-six years he never took a pinch of salt. He believed strictly in a vegetable diet, saying "it is against nature when a man eats meat." When he went upon a journey he took food with him, as he never trusted cooks to prepare it. Only a few weeks before his death he was in New York city, going the entire distance with his food. His only drink was water, or sometimes lemonade. He attributed his long life en-tirely to his diet." Without going to the vegetarian extreme, most persons during the spring and sum-mer would find it decidedly beneficial to cut down heir supply of meat, and cat more vegetables.

THE NEW YORK WORLD says that a clergyman stated in a lecture at Flushing, the other night, that three-fourths of the abandoned women of New York could trace their ruin to dancing. Such reckless statements, made by ignorant professional reformers, disgust sensible people. The preacher referred to knows very well, if he knows anything, that all the abandoned women of New York were never interviewed on the subject. He knows that three-fourths of them never attributed their rain to dancing. He knows, too, that in th very circles where dancing is most popular the fewest abandoned women are to be found. He should take his stand with bis clerical brother in New York who said, a few days ago, that he w be glad to hear that all the theaters had been

"EPITHETS SETTLE NOTHING." enator Butler's Manly Protest Against Fire

Eating Oratory.

The senator says he cannot give an intelligent answer as to whether or not a given number of southerners can whip a given number of "puritanical Yankees." but he improves the opportunity to refer to his experience in congress in the following language:

"I have listened with comparative composure to the degrading epithets and anathemas which men of the north—some men who wore the blue—have heaped upon and hurled at the men who wore the gray. During my twelve years in the United States senate I have heard such words as 'traitor,' 'rebel,' 'perjurer,' 'ingrate,' 'rascal,' 'assassin, etc., showered upon honorable men and brave soldiers of the south, but I neverpermitted myself to become excited over them, because I knew the words were not true. I could fill a volume with the vilest epithets of which the English language is capable, applied to leaders in the south whose characters are very dear to the south whose characters are very dear to the southern people—epithets gonerally approved and applanded at the north—certainly never rebuked as far as I know.

"I do not believe any brave man would apply such epithets to a fallen enemy, certainly not to a fallen enemy whose courage and fidelity to his convictions he has been compelled to admit. I do not thisk crimination and recrimination between people of the same race, who were equally conscientions in the line they pursued, are wise think crimination and recrimination between people of the same race, who were equally conscientious in the line they pursued, are wise They settle nothing in any proper controversy; each side will be judged, after the disputants have passed away, by the records each has made when epithets will toe forgotten. The temptation to retort, however, is almost irresistible. When General Sherman utters sentiments and gives advice calculated to precipitate race collisions and bloodshed in the south, and when Governor Foraker denounces and maligns southern meu and women by the wholesale, and somebody from the south calls them bad names, I do not see why other people should get excited.

calls them bad names, I do not see why other people should get excited.

"General Rosser did not claim -o speak for anybody but himself. He is quite able to take or for himself. He was my immediate conrade and friend during the war, and no army ever had a more able and gallant calvary officer. I have always thought that to speak one's sentiments freely was one of the boasted rightsjof American institutions. He had his favorites in both armies and has never concealed his preferences. In his speech at Baltimore he wrapped himself in the flag of the union, as he had done in the flag of the late con ederacy. He criticised, with some severity, generals of the union army, and pronounced the tenderest and most flattering and touching eulogies upon others. He did the same towards confederate generals. I have never heard any federal speaker applaud and praise any confederate officer as I have heard Rosser applaud and praise Custer, Pleasonton, Merritt and others; and I have never heard federal speakers criticise any confederate officer with more force than I have heard Rosser criticise. Pope, Sherman and other men. So think he has struck a fair general average.

To begin with, all the 'yankees' are not 'puritanical.' You will find 'puritanical' people everywhere, south as well as north; and sometimes when 'puritanism' runs into fausaticism the yare the udlest customers in the world. Beside this, I believe by mili ary discipline you can make any soldier fight—certainly any American soldier. General Rosser has a perfect right to his opinions and an equal right to express them." DEATH OF JUDGE CAMPBELL.

Sketch of a Celebrated Georgian-His Eminent Career.

BALTIMORE, March 12.-Hon. John A. Campbell, ex-justice of the supreme court of the United States, and assistant confederate secretary of war, died at his home in this city this afternoon, aged nearly 78. His death was the end of a long illness, resulting from old age. He was born near Washington, Wilkes county. Ga., and graduated from the university of that state at the sge of fifteen, with the first henors, and afterwards went to West Point. He was admitted to practice law in Florida. He practiced law in Mont-gomery, Ala,, and there married Miss Anne E. Goldthwaite. He went to Mobile, Ala,, where he litigated and settled almost all land titles, which were complicated at that time by reason of the obof the Spanish grants. In 1836 he was a member of the state legislature. In 1853 nominated to fill a vacancy in the supreme he was nominated to fill a vacancy in the supreme court by President Pierce, and was unanimously confirmed by the senate. He entered upon his duties at the age of forty-two. In the spring of 18th he resigned his position on the court and went south, and became assistant secretary of war of the confederacy. He himself regarded his success in the great "State" case, as it is called, the states of New York and New Hampshire vs. Lousiana, as the triumph of his legal life, as it established his view of the rights of the states under the constitution. Recurring to his argument in that case. Chief Justice Waite said: "That it is the greatest legal argument that I have ever heard," and Justice Miller said: "I concur in that opinion." Historian Bancroft wrote that it was a profound study of the constitution.

During the reconstruction era he was one of the most prominent figures in Alabama. He represented his county in the famous double legislature when there were two houses in session, democrats and republicans. Mr. Parks made considerable reputation by facing the music and engaging eputation by facing the music and engaging in a hand-to-hand fight with a member republican wing.

MILWAUKEE, March 12.-The examination of Hah Ding and Sam Yip, Chiramen accused of debauching little girls in their laundries, was concluded this morning, and the Mongolians were held in bonds of $5,000 each to answer. The feeling against the Chinese laundrymen, which last night evinced itself in the mobbing of laundries in various parts of the city, has not yet entirely subsided. The evicted Chinamen are huddled together in a laundry on the West Side and are fearful that they will suffer personal injury.

The Oldest Twins.

From the Philadelphia Record. The oldest Living twins in the United States were born in this century in Philadelphia county. Their names are John and Samue: Nice, and they bear such resemblance to each other that it is almost impossible to distinguish them apart. One resides in Germantown and the other in Jenkintown. They were born on May 11, 1805. They bot learned cabinet making, and in 1828 they opened an undertaker's establishment at the corner of Main street and Washington avenue, Germantown, and remained there until the close of the civil They have long since retired from active business

Both men have married twice, both are widowers, and each has the same number of descendants. Within the past few years they have become quite deaf. They enjoy comparatively good health, and are as active as men in the prime of life. Neither has ever used tobacco in any form or tasted liquor This, they claim, is the cause of their long li sides being the oldest twins, they believe that they are the oldest undertakers in the country, and to have owned the oldest burial establishment in th United States, it dating back to 1769.

A stranger, supposed to be a man who is wanted for murder in Tucson, was discovered hid-ing under the bridge the other day and taken to jail to be held until identified. That night he dug his way out, and next day the sheriff was around trying to get a $100 bill changed. He says he found the bill on the street, but that story looks fishy. There isn't a man in this town that wouldn't yell a lung out if he had lost that much money. The prisoner used a crowbar to dig out with, and the sheriff says he must have had it concea pistol 100ket. The official owes us $15, and if we can get our hands on the money this week we shall, in our next issue, advise the public to run him out of town as a dishonest scoundrel.

MAYOR JACOB, OF LOUISVILLE, WITH OTHER CITY OFFICIALS. Mr. Sam Venable and a Number of Prominent At-

A special train of three private coaches pulled out of the union depot yesterday morning at ten o'clock and twenty minutes. It was drawn by a Georgia road engine, and its desti-nation was Stone Mountain and Lithonia.

The coaches were "Olivette," one of the handsomest sleepers of the Georgia road, No. 351 Louisville and Nashville private car, and No. 18 of the Western of Alabama, Mr. Cecil Gabbett's private coach.

Most of those on board were in the real coach. Among them were Hon. Charles D. Jacobs, mayor of Louisville; Hon. R. F. Snowen, city engineer of Louisville; Hon. Lafe Joseph, assistant city attorney of Louisville Hon. H. H. Littell, superintendent of the street railway system of Louisville, and Mr.

Shepard, of St. Paul.

These gentlemen reached the city Tuesday morning at 12:32 by the East Tennessee road, bent upon an investigation of the granite beds of the sonth, looking to paving in Louisville, Soon after their special coach reached Atlanta it was drawn from the East Tennessee depot to a side track near the union depot, where it remained until yesterday morning. The com-ing of the party was known to Mr. Venable of the Stone Mountain Granite comfriends, and several distinguished citizens of Atlanta, had arranged to meet the gentlemen and escort them to the granite beds.

About nine o'clock Mr. Venable and his

At that hour the visitors were breakfasting in their private car. Major Green, of the Georgia road, was on hand, and as soon as the party breakfasted, had the car drawn into the anion depot. Here the other two coaches were attached to the train, and then made ready for departure. Before the train pulled Mr Henry Underwood, of the Louisville and Nashville road, entered the coach, and intro duced his friends to the visiting party. While the introductions were yet in progress the the introductions were yet in progress the start was made.

The ride was a pleasant one.

Mr. Venable's guests, in addition to those from Louisville, were Mr. A. B. Bostick, superintendent of the Western and Atlanta; Mr. Cocil Gabbett, general manager of the Atlanta and West Point; J. A. Sams, local freight agent of the Louisville and Nashville; L. M. Dickey, of the Western and Atlantic; Fred D. Bush, of the Louisville and Nashville; Major J. W. Green, of the Georgia road; Colonel G. W. Adair, the well known real estate agent; Hon. Jacob Haas, chairman of the finance committee of the general council; Hon. George Hillyer, ex-mayor of Atlanta; R. M. Clayton, city engineer; Major J. A. Eberhardt, of Cincinnatti, representing the Southern Granite company; Hon. C. D. Hill, solicitorgeneral; R. S. Rust, Hon. E. P. Hewell, E. H. Leidy, of Memphis, and Frank Meader, of Atlanta.

Colonel Adair called the attention of the party e work, saying: That is what Abe Lincoln meant when he

When, a little further down the road, the almost perpendicular portion of the mountain came into view, Colonel Eberhardt remarked: "In the words of Napoleon, 'that is grand,

"In the words of Napoleon, 'that is grand, gloomy and peculiar.'"

At the end of the track the party left the car and, ascending the side of the hill, examined the quarries. The work was a revelation to all present. As a Scotchman would cut out a square block with his hammer, the gentlemen looked on in astonishment, and as a negro would split another heavy stone with an iron wedge the same as if it had been a log of wood their surprise was not diminished. The visitors were conducted over the hills by the Atlanta gentlemen, and as the inspection was going on they were being over the hills by the Atlanta gentlemen, and as the inspection was going on they were being entertained with stories about the mountain.

Mr. Gabbett, however, did not ascend the side of the mountain. He is an amateur artist, and his work is of such a character as would put many a professional to the blush. He owns a photographers' outfit, which he keeps in his private car with his gun, and while the other gentlemen were scattered upon the hillside he secured a good group photograph. Then he ascended the hill and placing the party in position made another picture.

Both pictures are good, and every one in the can be easily distinguished by his

Further on Mr. Venable pointed out the bank down which a child had rolled some years ago, and showed the spot where it had been stopped and whence it had been rescued by means of a rope. Then Mr. George Hillyer pointed out the place where a cabin once stood upon the top of the mountain.

"It certainly had a solid foundation," remarked Mr. Shepard.

"Yes, but do you know," answered Judge Hillyer, "that chains or iron rods were attached to the corners of the building and then to pieces of iron which had been sunk in the mountain. This was done to keep it from

Two Mountain Fiddlers .- A couple fof musicians from the mountains made things hum in the United States marshal's office yesterday afternoon, They sawed all kinds of good old tunes out of two oldfashioned fiddles, and kept such excellent time that half of the crowd were compelled to "pat" and the other half were forced to "shuffle." The "Virginia Reel" was great, and "Old Susaunah" made the boys shout for joy. Clerk Hamilton said, with deep emotion, that the fiddle was the sweetest of all wind instruments, and Dr. Neims observed with intense emphasis that it beat a whole opera with the scenery thrown in, and Detective Murphy was charmed almost to death. If two violinists had entered the room and struck up an operatic air, they would have been lynched on the spot.

The biggest damage suit ever brought in this county was filed today in the circuit court clerk's office. Mrs. Hannah Jacobs sues the Birmingham Mineral Railroad company for $100,000 damages, for the death of her husband, Peter Jacobs. Jacobs was an engineer on the Ensby City Street railway. On the 23d of February last, a freight train on the Mineral railroad backed into the dummy engine, he was running, on a crossing. The boiler was broken and Jacobs was scalded to death by escaping steam. Juries in this death by escaping steam. ABOUT PERSONS AND THINGS.

City tax collector, R. J. Griffin, and the members of his office force, are getting ready for the busy time which comes on them the first of April. For the next two weeks they will devote their time to a thorough canvass of the city for new buildings and improvements, and as this requires a et by street inspection, the officers have no easy ask before them.

"You may not realize how many improvements are being made," said Mr. Griffin yesterday. "It requires a thorough canvass of the city to ahow this. Our books will show this year a much larger number of new buildings and improvements than at any time in the past six years. The figures will show, I am sure, no less than six hundred new buildings, a large proportion of them fine residences. The amount of building being done is really remarkable." really remarkable."

"Do you know," continued Mr. Griffin, "I believe there would be even more building in At-anta if there were more brick made here? It seems to me that there are fewer brick buildings than there were when there were a number of brick manufactories. Brick was cheaper then than it is now, and there were more brick buildings, Why can't we have them now?"

Judge Simmons, associate justice of the su-preme court, was the recipient of many congratu-lations upon his marriage yesterday. The first day of his honeymoon wasn't particularly romantic, as he spent most of the time dictating opinions to the supreme court reporter, Mr. John M. Graham, him-self a recent addition to the married majority.

Mr. A. L. Suesman, of Chicago, general western manager of the United Press, spent yester-day in Atlanta. The terrible news of the assassination of Captain Dawson, of the News and Courier, created no little excitement when made known in Atlanta last evening. Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The stock market today was dull, with very little movement in prices. The copper sensation has ceased to have any effect upon copper sensation has ceased to have any enect upon the stock market. The covering of shorts which was so marked a feature yesterday was laking to-day, and in the absence of rny disposition to buy, there was nothing to hold quotations outside of the usual small demand, and, while there was no the usual smal demand, and, while there was not no other hand no inclination to hammer prices, the market sank into intense dullness, and prices be-came stagnan. The waiting disposition seems to have again taken hold of the local operators, and after the prices of coal has been settled, and the meetings of the Illinois Central and St. Paul direc-tors are over, and we have heard of the final inten-tion of Commissioner Walker, there may be a more decided character to speculation. There was considerable irregularity to movements within the narrow limits, and while St. Paul was stubbornly held, there was some weakness in New England, and during earlier hours Lackawanna Manhattan lost about a point. Pullman also retired 2 per cent. Reading, St. Paul and Lackawanna were the only stocks showing any animation in the regular list, but cotton oil was again very active, and after a drop of 1% remained in the neighborhood of its lowest figure. The closs was dull and steady, generally at slight fractions under opening figures. Final changes are irregular, but declines are in the majority though, except in the case of Pullman, which lost 2. Showing a decrease of ... 82,048 NEW ORLEANS, March 12-[Special.]-Glenny & Violett, in their cotton circular, say: Liverpool closed barely steady at 1.64 lower than yesterday and our market 6 points lower. The free receipts at ports evidently being the principal cause of the decline. Stagnation is the prevailing feature everywhere and the market seems to be getting into a rut again. As we said yesterday port receipts must continue large while interior shipments are so heavy the immediate course of the market will depend on the light or heavy port movements to a great extent,

GLENNY & VIOLETT.

NEW YORK, March 12—[Special.]—Henry Clews & Co.'s cotton circular on the market today says: Spot cotton in Liverpool was dull with sales of 8,000 bales at unchanged prices. Futures opened at an advance of 1-64, but this was soon lost and the close advance of 1-64, but this was soon lost and the close was barely steady at a partial loss of 1-64 from yesterday's prices. Our market has ruled duli ail day the opening figures were 1 point below last night's closing and on free receipts and the anxiety regarding the situation in Fall river there was a further loss of $104 points, the lowest figures of the day. The southern markets are quiet and steady. The interior receipts continue in excess of last year and its a stumbling block to any decided advance for the moment.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, March 12-Trading in wheat was acimpression was that some large "buil" traders were seiling out their May wheat. Interest centered principally in May, which opened a shade weaker, and after num rous fluctuations declined to a point 4 cents below yesterday's closing, and closed 3%c lower. Offerings were very heavy most of the day, and a great deal of "tong" wheat was un-loaded, though in break considerable buying was done on the part of the shorts, who had sold at higher prices. This buying caused occasional railies, but the feeling was very weak. July, on the other hand, ruled comparatively steady and sold ½c above yesterday's closing figure and closed 14c below. There was good buying for delivery, and at the same time not a great quantity offered. While operators have confidence in values for While operators have confidence in values for July, they have not so for May at prices current, unless manipulation could be resorted to. The fact that there is no support for May future accounts for the drop in prices.

A moderate business was transacted in corn, and the feeling comparatively firm considering the weak tone of wheat. The activity of other markets withdrew interest from the pit and trading was local and fluctuations were confined within 1/4@3/c

There was less activity in oats, but a fair business transpired within narrower range. There was an absence of heavy realizing by "longs" that characterized trading yesterday. "Shorts" were free buyers and a steadler feeling prevailed.

Considerable interest centered in mess pork, and trading was quite active. Prices ruled fregularly, though somewhat higher. An advance of 30@350 was gained about the middle of the session and moderately supported. Extreme figures, however, were not fully maintained.

A Call for a State Convention of the Georgia W. C. T. U.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union of Georgia will hold its seventh annual convention in Augusta, April 16th to 20th. They invite delegate from every W. C. T, union in Georgia, and women representatives from all other temperance organiza-tions in the state. They also invite other good women who sympathize with the cause, whether they belong to temperance societies or not, to come and work and pray for the advancement of the tem perance cause and deliverance of our people from the great liquor evil.

It tells its own story of sin, degradation, ruin and death, and its fearful consequences upon the happiness and homes of our people, and we urge the women, from all parts of the state, to come and send up a nighty prayer, together, to God for help and redemption. The prayers and efforts already put forth have been marvelously blessed, and it may be that God is waiting for a more general and united action before giving a full and final "deliy-crance." Let them come from prohibition counties to encourage and pray with those that are still in bondage.

to encourage and play with these bondage.

Those desiring to come will please bring credentials from their societies or the churches to which they belong. They will also notify us as early as possible, that homes may be provided for them. Entertainment will be free and railroad rates reduced on return tickets. They are also requested to wear a small white ribbon bow that they may be identified upon arrival. Respectfully,

HIS SENTENCE WAS COMMUTED.

A. L. Wheeler, of Pickens County, Will be Free on April 1st. At the spring term, 1888, of the superior court of Pickens county, A. L. Wheeler was convicted of assault and battery in two cases. He was sentenced to serve twelve months in the Fulton county chaingang in one case and six months in the other. He has been con-

tence to be commuted to imprisonment until the first day of April, when he will be discharged from custody.

The prisoner has a large family The prisoner has a large family dependent upon him, and at present a number of his children are sick, and a petition to the governor, signed by respectable citizens, county officials and ministers of Pickens county represents that the offerses of which he was convicted were trivial, and that he has suffered sufficient punishment.

The governor was controlled by the above reasons in commuting the sentence.

TO THE FRONT AGAIN. J. J. Duffy, the Peachtree street grocer, to the front again; this time with spring chickens, at 75c. each. I always have the first of the season. When you want anything nice be sure to call at Duffy's, 75 Peachtree street. I will be the only groceryman in Atlanta today that will have any fine Turkeys, English Peas, Strawberries and twenty-five different kinds of Vegetables. I don't stop at anything in order to get what my customers may want; it's a fact, and a true one, that my customers are tired eating those fine things when them other fellows are about getting them in.

that are facts, and I maintain that they are stubborn facts that them other fellows can not distute. Now, you can't dispute the fact that I will sell you better groceries, give you better calue for your money, than any of them other follows can do. It is all very true that they blow, and I am very sorry to say that they are very fond of lying, as some of you have already found out; and in order that I alread found out; and in order that I may maintain my well-deserved reputation. I hope you will come to my stere any time in the next thirty I will prove to you that you can make urther in my house than you can make with them other fellows. Now, there is som one here in Atlanta making a big time is som one here in Atlanta making a big time blowing about saving you 20 per cent, selling Jelly & 5c per pound. Why, I am selling all kinds if Jelly at 3c. per pound. Then, they say they are selling four pound Prunes for 25c., eight pounds of Raisins for $1: now just pay attention to these facts: if you come to my store I will fell you twelve pounds of Raisins for $1, five pounds of Prunes for 25c. Now you can plainly see that I will save you 40 per cent on plainly see that I will save you 40 per cent on your groceries. Now, facts are facts, and the best greceries are what the people ought to eat, and I most respectfully ask the people of Atlanta to come and see me. I keep nothing but first-class groceries, and my customers tell me that since they have been trading with me that they have no use for doctors. Now, facts are facts, not dreams nor imaginations that cloud the brains of a poor, deluded grocerymen.

CAPITOL FURNISHING COMMISSION. What Was Done at the Meeting in the Wild

Land Office Yesterday. The commission to furnish the new capito had a quorum at their meeting in the wild lend office yesterday morning.

Treasurer Hardeman, Compireller Wright, Senator Rice and Representative Lamar, from out of the seven, were on hand.

The desks for the senate and house were selected from a sample submitted by the Rob-ert Mitchell Furniture company. The desks in the senate will be made of oak, those in the house of cherry. They will be neat and conveniently arranged.

The combination gas fixtures were selected from designs furnished by the Edison Electric company, and the $10,000 bond of this com-company, and the $10,000 bond of this company was accepted.

Some minor changes in original selections were agreed upon which will increase the cost of furnishing the building $873.50

The commission determined to grade the walks from the entrances of the building to the streets. These walks will be made of Portland cement and the street entrances will be terraced with granite steps. A walk of cement will encircle the building, and the avenues will be laid with cement.

Commissioners Rice, Hardeman and Wright were appointed a committee to advertise for bids to improve the grounds. The appropriation for this purpose is $5,000.

Colonel Hardeman says that the capitol will be furnished and the grounds improved in the best style, and all within the appropriation.

From a Leading New York Florist.

From a Leading New York Florist. C. F. Klunder, of No. 907 Broadway, New York, is one of the best known florists in America. Florists, like other persons, are subject to the ills of life, nothwithstanding the fragrance surrounding their calling, but like other persons they can be cured of their ills. Mr. Klunder writes:

I cordially recommend Allcock Porous Plasters. I have found them, after ten years' constant use, wonderfully efficacious in coughs, colds, pains inside, back and chest. As chest protectors and shields against changes in the weather they are invaluable. My hothouse men use a great many, and I and family are never without this never-failing external remedy.

"FERMENTUM."

WHAT IT IS AND HOW TO USE IT-

A Suggestion from a Reliable Firm-Be Sure You Call for Fermentum and Take No Other-Yeast.

Other—Yeast.

Ladies of Atlanta, this is a new yeast here, but has been tried and used in St. Louis, Chicago, and the whole west for many, many years.
Fermentum, as the name implies—to ferment—is of organic origin, being an extract from selected grain only, and is specifically an azotized compound and contains all that produces a proper leaven. It is put up in the same style as all other compressed yeast, and is guaranteed to please. It is sold at the usual price of 2% cents per cake or square, and your grocer is requested to guarantee each and every cake. It will raise a sponge in one hour and make the same lighter than any competing compressed yeast, and if you follow the directions it will never fail to make good sweet bread. Hundreds of ladies who have tried it are willing to testify to its merits, and we assure you in representing this agency that we fully realize the importance that every guarantee implies. We state as reliable business men that you need have no hasitancy in trying or using it at all times. We guarantee it to do what we say. In accepting the agency we state that that insures its success, for it being a success itself it needs nothing but proper introduction, and we ask every lady in Atlantawho desires nice, light, sweet bread, to apply to their own grocer, who will always be supplied. If your own grocer has none in stock, we will gladly supply you, but insist upon having Fermentum, take no other, and you will be delighted with your bread. These are the directions:

Bread.—For family use dissolve one cake of Fermentum very thoroughly in enough lukewarm (not hou water to make your sponge for an ordinary baking of from two to four loaves. Allow the same top raise, and when properly risen, which will be within about one hour, add enough flour to make a dough, then mould your loaves and bake in a hot stove before they are too light. To bake smaller or larger quantities, use your sponge be set over at night, but should always be baked for meal time.

Biscuits, Rolls, etc., to be baked for meal time.

as ignt.

Buckwheat Cakes, etc.—Dissolve one-half cake to every quart of four; let the dough stand in warm place about half an hour, when it will be ready for use. Preserve these directions for reference. Ask Your Grocer for the "FERMENTUM COMPRESSED YEAST"

JUICES, BY USING THE WIRE GAUZE OVEN DOOR

MARVELOUS RESULTS LOSS IN SHRINKAGE OF MEATS. Very few people know that the Shrinkage of Meats roasted in a close even is from thirty-five to forty per cent. All meat contains seventy-five per cent. of water and only twenty-five per cent of solid matter, and the loss that is made in the roasting is made in the evaporation of the juice which is the VITAL PART OF MEAT.

Effect of the SOLID OVEN Door. A TEN pound Sirioin, medium or well-done, will be REDUCED to SIX pounds and four ounces of Roasted Meat, showing a loss of three pounds and twelve ounces of juice. While the loss is 51% per cent of the total weight, it shows the enormous LOSS OF FIFFE PER CENT OF THE FUICE.

Effect of WIRE GAUZE OVEN Door A TEN pound Sirioin, medium or well-done, will be reduced to nine pounds and sight ounces of mosted Reat, showing a loss of eight ounces of juice. THOSE TIN CANS THAT HOVER MADE ARE NOT DY NAMITE CARTRIDGES.

BUT ONLY A PATENT OF HIS.

He is Tired of Atlanta and Says He is Going to Leave Here-His Meeting Was Not Held Last Night Because the Negro Preacher Withdrew

"I'm tired of Atlanta."

The speaker was H. F. Hover, the one-eyed rator. He was standing in the office at police eadquarters yesterday afternoon, and with him was one of the queer tin cans with a tube in each end.

"Yes, sir," repeated Hover dolefully, "I'm ired of Atlanta.' "Is that one of your dynamite bombs?"

asked a patrolman, pointing to a little tin "Yes, that's the bomb." The little can is two or three inches long and an inch or so in diameter, and soldered in each end is a litttle tin tub. Over one of the tubes was fitted a rubber about two inches

ng. "What on earth is that for?" asked the patrolman curiously.

"That's a patent," said the labor evangelist. "What for?"

"For catarrh. That's an original idea of mine. I have suffered for a long time with catarrh, and after trying every remedy I saw advertised, I hit upon this plan of mine. Be-fore I went to the expense of patenting my invention, I wanted to get up a cheap model and try it. I had six made and have loaned them to my friends. That tin can ain't no dynamite bomb-it's a cartarrh inhaler."

"What do you put in it?"
"That's where the secret is. It's mainly aseline, but I can't tell the rest of it."

"And you're tired of Atlanta?" "You're right I am. Why, sir, three men tried to kill me on Broad street last night. They said they was going to cut my d-d heart 'And you haven't any dynamite?" "No, or I wouldn't be here now. Yes, sir I'm tired of Atlanta."

I'm tired of Atlanta."

"Are you preaching yet?"

"I was going to have a meeting tonight over here in that little church by the cemetery, but the preacher won't let me have the church and I had to give them up."

"When are you going to leave?"

"In a day or two. I'm going to finish teaching, and then I am ready to go. I am teaching dress making to two young ladies. That's where I'm going now with this bundle."

And Hover walked off down Pryor street. The little tin cup is still there at the station house. Railroad Men Fined.

The railroad men against whom cases were made Monday for running their train at an unlawful rate of speed in the city limits, were tried yesterday before Judge Anderson.

W. S. Hearn, the engineer, was fined $10 and costs, and the case against the conductor was dismissed.

A Minor in a Barroom John Carter, a negro boy, was caught yesterday entering a barroom. A case was made against him by Patrolman Beavers.

The boy had been sent after a gentleman's overcoat and was in the room not more than a minute or two, but the law reads that way and the case was made.

Disorderly Riding. A negro boy named Jaimes Cariton was arrested yesterday for disorderly riding. The boy had been sent to carry a horse to the stable and ran through the streets recklessly. A little child was nearly run over and several ladies were frightened. Captain Couch captured the negro and horse, and then had the horse returned to its owner, Mr. Hirsch.

The governor at first hesitated to grant the request, but afterwards received a very magnanimous letter from Mr. Goodbread, in which he expressed perfect willingness that the relief he given

So yesterday Governor Gordon issued an order relieving Mr. Dunn as surety on the bond, and directing Mr. Goodbread to execute a new bond before the county commissioners within ten days after the personal service of the order, as required by law.

AN INCIDENT,

And the Facts Connected With It-How is It With You? This is an age of progress, when the man or woman struggling for prominence or to acquire a competency, must lay aside the traditions of the past and leave the well worn paths of generation gone before. On every hand we see the success ling those who have taken this as their mot But to attain this we must use sound judgment, and to do that it is absolutely necessary to have an active mind in a healthy body.

Not more than one-half of the present generation are free from disease, and a very large per-centage are afflicted with some disease of the rectum, (piles, fistula, fissure, &c.,) and still fail to apply for treatment, because some "medicine man' who should have lived two centuries ago, has told them they cannot be cured. Science laughs at the idea, and progress gives us the m cans of curing all these troubles without pain and without inconvenience. If in your business you were to find a leak that was bringing you to financial bankruptcy, how quickly you would endeavor to stop it; but you neglect a disease that will certainly bring you to physical bankruptcy, destroy your hopes for the future, and make you aburden to yourself and your friends. Can you afford to do this, when I place within your reach a safe, easy and effectual way of curing your troubles? Taking progress as my motto, I have laid aside all the ancient, painful and unsatisfactory means formerly employed dan treat all cases by a radical treatment appropriate to each case, thereby restoring you to health and hap-piness. Devoting my entire time to treating this class of diseases, may I not ask your consideration of my claims to your attention, promising you a cure if you are still within the reach of medicine? For full particulars, consult or write me, and I wil take great pleasure in giving you any information you may wish.

do nothing, why, the court will designate the place of holding the trial."
"Why do you think it will be carried beyond Macon circuit?"
"Just for the simple reason that in all those conting out its support to the second of the size. counties contiguous to the scene of the crime public sentiment is such that it will be impossible to secure a jury. Another reason is, that the jury lists are comparatively speaking, restricted in those counties, and that will make it harder to secure a jury than it would be in a larger city."

"Will it come to Atlanta?" "Will it come to Atlanta?"
"It is impossible to guess an answer to that question. It is possible that it may come here, but there are no indications to render it in any way probable. If there is a change of venue it may be brought to Atlanta, and I think it is quite probable that it will be removed from the Macon circuit entirely. I am going down there tonight and will remain until the matter is settled."

Lecture Tomorrow Night. One of the events of this week will be the lecture Thursday night at the First Methodist church by Dr. W. H. Milburn, known as the blind man eloquent. He will lecture on Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the great Irish comedian. This lecture is delivered for the benefit of the Sunday school of the First Methodist church, and it is hoped that a large audience will greet this famous lecturer. Admission will be fifty cents. You can get tickets at the door, at Phillips & Crews'. Do not miss this lecture. It is too good to miss.

A Successful Physician.

A Successful Physician.

In a large and lucrative practice running through a number of years, my husband, by using Swift's Spreedife, rostored health to a great many people in whose cases all other remedies had proven useless. To give a list would be to write the history of stubborn maladies and remarkable and wonderful cures. I will mention the case of a young man afflicted with blood poison for five years. He was helpless for a year—was blind for some days, and his case seemed incurable—for under the usual treatment he had grown worse, until his condition was, to say the least, horrible; rheumatism came on to add to his sufferings. 1-r. Love prescribed Swift's specific, and by its use the poision was gradually forced out his system, the sight restored, the rheumatism cured, and today he is a sound and healthy man. My husband regarded Swift's Specific as the best known medicine for diseases which it professed to cure.

A LOST BABY

A Lady Sends Her Little Girl Out With a Servant and Both Get Lost Yesterday evening little 'Pearl Oliver, the hree year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Oliver, was found wandering about on Pulliam street with her nurse. The nurse was a little nine year old negro

The officer who founed them learned from the bewildered darky that the family lived near the corner of Thompson and Nelson streets. The wanderers were returned to their home between seven and eight o'clock, and the fears of the almost distracted mother were re-

Mrs. Oliver sent the little negro girl out for a loaf of bread to a bakershop near the Woman's Christian association home, and allowed her to take the little baby girl with her. The nurse got bewildered and wandered out to where she was taken up by the police.
Coming in on the car little Pearl was the object of much curiosity to the passengers.
"I want to go home," she said.
"Where is your home?"
"I live on Thompson street, and I want to go home."

What is your number?" "Oh, it's on the tin over the door. I live on "Where does your father work?"
